People who want permanent sex change take these steroids before they go for surgery. It goes the same way (but opposite effects) for the other gender. The only reason you are male or female is determined by hormones & when you change that chemistry, the changes occur physically to your body. Just because you're ignorant and don't know that does not mean this is a hoax. This happens with thousands of people who use hormones for bodybuilding or are prescribed it because they want gender reassignment. There are plenty of Candice before & after shots on Google you lazy ass.

Complete hoax. Steroids can change women's bodies, but they won't completely change bone structure. Look at "Candice's" hands - they are mens hands.

The 'before' photos are a man dressed as a woman. This whole story is a hoax - it's a man pretending to be a woman who has abused steroids, all the while laughing at you.
